

Howe Fascinates GSCW Audience

Combining a very human, warm personality with a flare for acting and writing, Helen Howe, who appeared here Friday night, has become one of the best monologuists on the American stage.

In the course of her program here, Miss Howe portrayed an American school girl, a hard-boiled waitress, a Russian peasant, a Vermont housewife, and eight other much varied personalities.

The ease with which she switched from one character to the next belied the hard work which went into the development of each sketch. To those who may be interested in becoming a dramatic monologuist warns, "It takes determination to succeed, plus lots of hard work—or as it's been said before, 'the application of the seat of the pants to the seat of the chair'."

Besides writing all of her own sketches, Miss Howe is the author of two books, one of which was a best seller last year, "The Whole Heart." The other is "We Happy Few," now in the hands of the publishers, and scheduled to appear later this year.

During the past summer, Miss Howe has appeared at the Stage Door, Canteen and in Army hospitals in and around New York.

"The hospitals are my favorites," she declared, "although they are much more difficult to do. Somehow there is a great satisfaction to be derived from doing something for those boys. They've all been through so much. Of course, it's fun to entertain the other boys, but they can take care of themselves."

Miss Howe expressed appreciation for the warm reception she received Friday night, saying that she hoped to be able to visit GSCW again sometime in the future.

Lamar Dodd, well-known artist, will surprise audience tonight as to who will be his model when he paints a portrait on the stage of Russell Auditorium. The program will begin at 7:30.

LAMAR DODD

the work has been reproduced in leading magazines and newspapers. He is listed in "Who's Who in America," and is represented in many collections. He was born in Fairburn, Georgia. He studied at Georgia Tech, Art Students League of New York, and Colorado Spring Fine Arts Center.

The awards which he received are as follows:

Southern States Art League—Purchase Prize for Water Color.

Alabama Art League—Certificate of Merit, (Highest Award).

Southern States Art League—Benjamin Prize of $250 (First).

Association of Georgia Artists, Telfair Academy, Savannah.

Nightwatchman Trusts GSCW Girls

If you see a man about five feet eight, wearing a tan overcoat a felt hat and horn-rimmed spectacles, standing out on front campus as you walk with your favorite date, don't be alarmed. It's only the new night watchman.

His name is H. T. Butler and he used to be a watchman at the state hospital so he isn't altogether new at this job of "night-watching." He took over his present duties on January 29, and although he still has to go across town to go home, he and Mrs. Butler plan to move nearer the campus soon.

No—Lamar Hood wasn't drafted. He's merely been promoted and is now a member of the Milledgeville police force. He made the rounds with Mr. Butler the first few nights, so you may be sure that our new watchman knows all the angles.

Mr. Butler's "beat" includes all college territory from Miller Hall to Ennis and Sanford. He also patrols the Home Management Houses and checks all the building on main campus. His is a job that lasts from twilight till dawn—5:30 a.m., to be exact.

Mr. Butler is very friendly and will be offended if "Jessies" pass by without speaking to him.

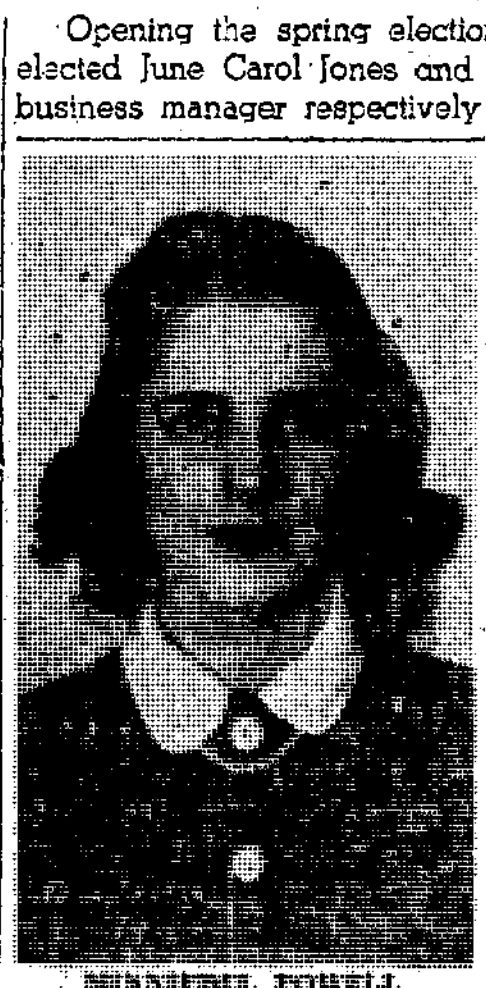

"I've always thought a lot of the girls from GSCW," he said, "and I don't want to inconvenience any of them. However, I must do my job with the girls co-operating with me, I'm sure we'll get along fine."

So it seems that it's all left up to the Jessies. How about it, girls?

Jordan Denounces BSU To Sponsor Racial Superiority Evangelistic Week

"There is no such thing as a superior race," declared Mr. Clarence Jordan in his address to the student body in chapel exercises February 5.

Mr. Jordan, well-known religious educator and owner of the Koinonia Farms near Americus, was the speaker for "Racial Justice Month," sponsored by the YWCA. He also made a talk to the combined Y organizations last Monday night.

Mr. Jordan explained that there were more similarities than difference between nations and races. He also pointed out that the eyes of the world are on America, and the stand that the United States will take in the racial situation.

Society in the South has a long way to go in recognizing the Negro, but the individual has even more responsibility, Mr. Jordan said. "We must inform ourselves as to the situation, reform our ways of dealing with the situation, and be what we are," he explained. "In short, we must do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

BSU To Sponsor Evangelistic Week

The Rev. Byron M. Wilkinson will be on campus for BSU Student Evangelistic Week, February 15-17. A native of West Virginia, attended Marshall College, Huntington, West Virginia, University of Louisville, and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, at Louisville, Ky.

BYRON M. WILKINSON

He has traveled throughout the country as youth evangelist, speaking in churches, universities and high schools. He will speak in chapel on February 16. Rev. Wilkinson was intercollegiate tennis champion of West Virginia, reached third in the Middle Atlantic Intercollegiate, and Men's State Champion of West Virginia. Reports predict his talks to be exceedingly interesting.

Patsy Malcolm leads the discussions after fruit juice, doughnuts, and coffee. Bring a dime over to the "Y" apartment next Thursday morning and discuss with us your favorite Bible passages.

Rosalie Onkes, USO-YWCA regional secretary, recently spent a few days on campus. She talked to the WAVES while she was here, and to GSCW girls about ways to coordinate plans for the rest of the quarter.

A total of $304.45 was received at the GSCW President's Birthday Ball, January 26. After subtracting the expense, a net of $294.33 remained.

Dr. Mildred English, Dean Hoy Taylor, and President Guy Wells will attend the Georgia Teachers Education Council in Atlanta on February 12.

Dr. Guy Wells will speak before the Rotary club and West Georgia College students when he goes to Carrollton February 13.

"Back Home For Keeps" Title Of New Song By Two Leading Songwriters

The nationally famous "Back Home For Keeps" paintings which have been observed in many of the top magazines of the country and which have been selected as the favorite pin-up pictures by the majority of colleges throughout the country have inspired two top-ranking songwriters to put this theme to music.

Many "old-timers" have been visiting on campus recently. It seemed mighty natural to see Mary Frances Murchison, Madeline Lanier, Annie Ruth Jones and Madge Jones visiting around.

Swing and Sway with Sammy Kaye... That's what quite a few of the Jessie did at the Tech dances last week end. There were Jane Brewster, Peggy Ball, Susan Morris, Jean Whitmore, Margaret Hodges among them.

How to keep up with the war... Take a trip to see Jean Rock on third floor Bell B and study her world map with all the flags, etcetera... showing where all the Armies are. She's keeping up with John, that husband over there... and all the other boys, too.

"Have you seen Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo yet?"... That's the greeting these days. And Van Johnson... Well, don't forget to drop by and see the "autographed" picture Pat Collins has.

"Lucy" the Mercer BSU bus, is getting to be a constant visitor on campus, taking and bumping groups of girls to and from conferences and meetings. She is now bedecked with Jessie stick-

A sentimental ballad, it bears the same title, "Back Home For Keeps," and is written by Carmen Lombardo and Bob Russell. It was broadcast for the first time on Monday, February 5, over the Blue Network on the Guy Lombardo program heard from 9:30 to 9:50 p.m. CWT.

Following is the chorus:
Back Home For Keeps, we
that will be the day!
You'll sweetly kiss the angry
years away.
Some things will have changed,
That much we knew from the very start.
We wanted them changed.
After all that's why we're spart
Back home with you, imagine what that meant!
We'll revel in the old familiar scenes.
And walk the quiet hillside,
While the world peacefully
sleeps,
In your welcome arms, I'll be Back Home for Keeps.

Eddy Sets Goal For Better World

Emphasizing the importance of winning the war and the peace, and building a better world, Sherwood Eddy, noted lecturer and traveler, spoke to the student body in chapel Friday.

As a pattern for building the new, better world, Mr. Eddy proposed a platform of four cornerstones—Justice, Liberty, Brotherhood, and Loyalty to a vital dynamic whole religion. The Anglo-Saxon countries, although possessing liberty and vital religion are sadly lacking in justice and brotherhood. It is to these two cornerstones that particular attention must be paid if a better world is to arise from the chaos of today. Russia and the European countries will have to develop the cornerstones of liberty and religion, although they are outstanding in the field of justice and brotherhood.

A Huntin' They Go For Love Seats, Spinet Pianos A La "Quality Street"

Do you happen to have a spinet piano, a love seat that dates back to 1800, or perhaps some Chinese lanterns tucked away in your attic at home? If so, you're just the person the prop crew for "Quality Street" is looking for.

"Quality Street," by James Barrie, is the College Theatre's winter production. It will be presented February 21-22 in Russell Auditorium.

Anyone who has ever worked on the production of a play will readily agree that the job of collecting props is not an enviable one in the least. Props for a modern play entail no end of rushing around, inquiring and finally borrowing or renting, so you can imagine the job when everything must date back almost a century and a half.

After it's all over, don't be surprised if your roommate turns up being a specialist in interior decoration.

Miss Mankey's "History of Costume" class is busy with the costumes which promise to prove almost as absorbing as the play itself.

So if you see a group of students apparently in deep concentration, they aren't discussing week-end dates. They are just working on "Quality Street."

No Poll Tax Here So You CAN Vote

Nominations are coming in this week for presidents of the three major organizations on our campus and then elections take place the following Wednesday.

In a less intelligent and less informed group we would write for hours and hours on the rights, privilege, and duty of voting in these student body elections on our campus. However, when speaking to such intelligentsia as students of GSCW, we shall only make the above statement, that elections will be held, Wednesday, February 14.

Editor's Note: If any persons has such an embarrassing and severe loss of memory that she cannot think of a sufficient number of reasons as to why she should vote, we will personally be glad to simplify the question at hand by drawing her a picture.)

Last year 67 per cent of the students voted in CGA elections. We can see that that leaves us plenty of room for improvement. Here are the figures each class will have to surpass:

Freshman (now sophomore).....	70 per cent
Sophomore (now junior).....	47 per cent
Junior (now senior).....	85 per cent
Senior (graduated).....	62 per cent

Your ballot will be waiting for you.

Campus-Wide Interests Unite College

The silver display which is being held in Beeson Reading Room this week was selected by CPK as a project because of the desire to acquaint all GSCW students with the various popular silver patterns of today. In addition to the regular flatware, local jewelers have secured private collections of antique silver valued at $5,000.

Exhibits and programs of this type which are not only interesting but also educational to college students are important in the activities of a college. Each year there are on campus a number of events which add to our general knowledge. It is gratifying to see that smaller organizations also realize their responsibility to the campus as a whole. Every activity on our campus should attempt to unite the entire student body rather than divide it into clannish groups.

Dear Editor

Dear Editor:

There are so many organizations on this campus that none can function properly and be as worthwhile as they should be. Why not do away with some of them and have a few really good clubs and organizations?

The departmental clubs seem to be the greatest in number and the least profitable. Most students do not enjoy them because they are only repetition of class work or related subjects. The clubs are not as valuable to students as a whole as clubs in other fields that would help broaden their interests and give them more varied experiences, which in turn, would make them more well-rounded individuals instead of people highly trained in only one field.

Many students have commented on the confusion caused by so many meetings. Because of conflicts in schedule, it is impossible to attend all clubs that they are expected to attend. How about some "quality" instead of all the "quantity"?

A SENIOR.

Notice to Seniors

You who expect to complete your work in March should come to by the Placement Bureau at your earliest convenience. There are a number of forms which take some time to complete, and which must be filled out before our most adequate advice can be given you. C's are already coming in, and unless we have information on file about you, you are at a decided disadvantage.

If you already have a position, please come by the Bureau and tell us what you plan to do. We need this information for our files, also.

There are a number of new monographs on CAREERS FOR COLLEGE WOMEN in the Placement Bureau and you in selecting a career. We invite you to drop by at your leisure and look them over. We are located in Room 212, Education Building.

Betty requests that these suggestions be mentioned soon so that they may be compiled at an early date with other suggestions. A suggestion box will be placed in the College Government Office.

In the last issue of the Colonnade we raised the question of combining various clubs with common interests. Student Council is now discussing the possibilities of doing this in the near future if the clubs cooperate. "Look Before You Leap" Is Advice To Freshmen In Choice Of Major

"If I were a freshman again..." So says the Senior on the last "round-up." "Well—I'd major in this or that...or maybe both...if I were a freshman again."

In talking to many of the seniors are found several who would like to change their majors if they could begin over again... and more than a few who did change once or more before they finally decided on their major field.

Several voiced desires for more counseling advice early in college training in the selection of majors and more knowledge of what opportunities each field offers. Some wished for more liberal arts and stated that following a vocational field had its disadvantages in not offering a wide enough cultural program.

Some seniors wished they had majored in math and one in science, while one secretarial major wished she were receiving an AB in social science and another wished an AB in "anything."

Two home ec majors wished they had majored in sociology, and one elementary education desired a home economics degree.

Out of 104 girls interviewed, ten wish they had changed their majors, 56 have changed once, and three have changed twice.

From these came pearls of wisdom to the freshmen with statements of "Look before you leap," or "Don't major in chemistry until you've had one course!"

New Magazine To Appear Soon

A new pocket-size magazine, This Month, is appearing on the news stands this month. It is published by the Association for the Promotion of International Understanding, a non-profit group. An article in the March issue is entitled, "1,000,000 B.C. to 1,000,000 A.D." (So far as we know, this is not an autobiography.)

Union Board members of Michigan State College at a recent meeting asked a coed to see her ring. They had heard she was engaged. The senior coed had the grace to blush and explained that the story must have started when she put a diamond ring on her left hand so she could get into an over-filled marriage class.
